TIMES-VIRGINIAN

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 8, 1920

A good farmer friend writes that he offered his tobacco and could not sell. Tobacco is cur rency in Appomattox and is very much depreciated. He took it back home and will use it for fertilizer. Couldn't pay for his paper at this time The farmers everywhere are complaining—the stuff he buys in manufactured products is not reduced, yet his products will not command the cost of production. The business en terprises of the world are fac ing heavy mortality.

Farm Credits Bill Drafted

Washington, Dec. 6—Revival of the war finance corporation, and action by the federal re serve board permitting exten sion by banks of "liberal" credit to farmers would be di rected in a joint resolution drafted late today by the sen ate agricultural committee The resolution will be reported to the senate tomorrow by Senator Gronna, of North Da kota, the agricultural commit tee chairman, who will ask for immediate consideration

Members of the committee drafting the resolution express ed confidence that enough votes were assured to bring about its prompt passage, but mem bers of the finance committee indicated that they would ask that it first be referred to them for consideration inasmuch as the war finance corporation was created under a bill drawn by their committee.

Restoration of the war fi nance corporation to furnish financial aid to farmers also would be directed in a concur rent resolution presented today in the house by Representative Byrnes, democrat, of South Carolina.

The senate agricultural com mittee decided to report its res olution as a committee measure hoping thereby to save time. With unanimous consent under the senate rules the resolution could be read twice in one day and placed on the calendar for passage.

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, a member of the agricultural committee, first proposed a concurrent resolution, which does not require approval by the president, but other mem bers objected on the ground that such a resolution would not be strong enough. While not anticipating the action of the president, democratic sena tors made clear their intention of voting to override a veto if necessary.

The senate committee's reso lution declares that "unpre cedented and unparalleled dis tress" exists among the farm ers because of their inability to market their products at prices equalling the cost of their pro duction and that the people of Europe are "in dire need" of these products but unable to purchase because of existing financial conditions. The reso lution further recites that banks have been unable to ex tend credit to farmers so they may hold their products until "they can be sold in a fair and reasonable market."

Buckingham

The papers, with one accord, are deploring the fact that farm products have declined in price to an extent which means ruin in some instances; and consumers in the cities are ask ing why the low prices have never reached them.

A manager of a packing es tablishment was asked, if hogs were selling as low as 10 cents a pound, why was it that hog meat had not declined in price when sold at retail; and the answer was that the cost of labor and other expenses had not declined.

The Dillwyn Warehouse open ed on Monday, the 6th, for the sale of tobacco, and it is usual for farmers to market their late cuttings and the lowest grades first; but this season it seems as if these classes of to bacco will have little demand.

I heard a farmer today de ploring his want of foresight when he didn't sell his wheat when he was offered $2.50 a bushel for it. The local mills sold flour the past week at $11 a barrel and it was sold on the Minnesota markets as low as $8.25.

A man named Willis Bocock Shoemaker died in an asylum the past week. This man was for a long time a familiar fig ure here, where he was born and reared.

Mrs. Emily M. Bondurant, after spending the summer and fall at her old home here, has gone South to spend the winter with her children.

Mr Robert Wooton has rent ed the old Irving place near here.

A Lynchburg drummer was here, and when asked how to bacco was selling on the Lynch burg market, he said very little had been sold.

This reminds me of a lady who asked a young man if he thought a certain young lady was pretty, and he said, "I've seen her before."

Mr. H. M. Harris was pain fully hurt at his sawmill near Lynchburg last week.

Looks like Senator Mapp is going to oppose Mr Tucker for the Democratic nomination for Governor. We need to have the prohibition question kept before the people, and Senator Mapp has done as much, in fact more, for this cause than most men.

Mr. T. B. Hall and Mrs Nan nie E Hall expect to spend this week in Lynchburg, the guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Nowlin.

Mrs. N H. McKay, of Tun stalls, who was Miss Emma Haskins before her marriage, has typhoid fever at her home in New Kent county.

One of the local doctors here went to a schoolhouse recently to vaccinate the children, and one gang of them took to the woods and never came back to be vaccinated. Those who were vaccinated have very sore arms.

A new wooden enclosure has been placed around the jail here

An active young man who is a good blacksmith can do a good business here.

People are running in their railroad tier, looking for a slump in prices for them, along with other things.

I heard a man say he had on hand a lot of hides, but at the current price of 6 cents a pound they were not worth shipping.

Wool growers are trying to get blankets made of their wool, but they can't find a place where they can get them made.

Pretty Idea of Chinese.

Chinese gardeners sometimes plant statuettes of tiny men firmly in pots, just like real plants, and then train live evergreens to grow up over these statuettes. The vines thus form a kind of robe for the statuette men, their white faces and hands protruding from the green leaves.

Miss Agnes Fore passed to the Great Beyond on last Saturday morning at 5:30 and was buried in the family plot at the home place on Sunday at 3 p. m. Miss Fore was in the eighty first year of her age and was a member of Olive Branch church. She leaves two brothers, Joel P. and D. P. A. Fore, besides a host of friends. Burial service was conducted by her pastor, Dr. Mosser, who made a most impressive talk on the all important subject of being ready to meet thy God. The beautiful floral display showed the esteem which the deceased enjoyed while here on earth.

Rev. J. W. Meador is sick at his home at Forest Chapel.

Mrs. Eugene Tillery is very much improved in the last few days.

Mrs. John McCue is right sick this week.

Rev. Dr. J. C. Shive, chairman Home Mission Board, filled the pulpit at the Presbyterian church at this place on Sunday morning and delivered an excellent sermon.

Short-Sighted Humanity.

We all dread a bodily paralysis and would make use of every contrivance to avoid it but none of us is troubled about a paralysis of the soul.—Epictetus.

Small Wonder!

"I trust, sir, that you have not been indiscreet enough to speak to my daughter about marriage," said the stern parent to the youth who had just asked for his daughter's hand. "I have not, sir," replied the youth, "but I was strongly tempted to do so last evening when she kissed me good night."

Also, the Road to Ruin.

As you say, Roger, the way of the transgressor and the path of the unrighteous are both one-way thoroughfares.—Boston Transcript.

Colds & Headache

"For years we have used Black-Draught in our family, and I have never found any medicine that could take its place," writes Mr. H. A. Stacy, of Bradyville, Tenn. Mr. Stacy, who is a Rutherford County farmer, recommends Black-Draught as a medicine that should be kept in every household for use in the prompt treatment of many little ills to prevent them from developing into serious troubles.

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

"It touches the liver and does the work," Mr. Stacy declared. "It is one of the best medicines I ever saw for a cold and headache. I don't know what we would do in our family if it wasn't for Black-Draught. It has saved us many dollars . . . I don't see how any family can hardly go without it. I know it is a reliable and splendid medicine to keep in the house. I recommend Black-Draught highly and am never without it."

WE ARE Strictly Supervised

We are required to report six times each year to the Comptroller of the Currency (Supervisor of National Banks). These reports are very exhaustive and convey such information regarding our financial condition as will enable the supervising authority to determine whether our business is being carried on with proper regard for the safety of funds entrusted to our keeping

We are also subject to semi annual examination by Government examiners, who call without giving any notice or warning whatever. The examiners go over and prove all of our books and securities and inquire into every phase of our operations.

We have always welcomed the strictest supervision and shall continue to do so.
